OFFICE: No. 15 Quincy Street.

SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1871. THE Charleston Journal says that Judge JACKSON ruled a few days ago that the Marshal must hereafter summon all his jurors from the Congressional District in which the Court is held.

THE Illinois Legislature having taken a recess until November, leaving some important business undone, it is said that the Governor has decided to call an extra session in a few weeks. To this many members respond that an extra session cannot be called during a recess, for it would be a session within a session, and they will probably refuse to assemble at eggs by the Ku-Klux of the neighborhood, and the press of the State are busily discussing the question whether Dean or the eggs will get the worst of it.

SPHINGFIELD, Illinois, is trembling over a sort of Ku-Klux mystery which has developed itself in the office of the Secretary of that State-viz: an organization in Chicago which asks to be incorporated under the name of "Cesco Cujcooskypoddornjici Spolek." What sort of a thing it is. Springfield cannot guess for the life of her; and in these days of conspiracies to remove Capitals and steal Legislatures. Springfield can't help feeling a little neryous about infernal machines thrust in. under and about the seat of government.

IT appears from tables prepared by the Bureau of Statistics that the total immigration to the United States since the organization of the government has been 7,803,865, the number previous to 1820 when actual counting commenced, being estimated at 250,000. Of the total arrivals, more than one half, or 3,851,850 have come from the British Isles, and 2,267,500 from Germany. The average amount of money possessed by each immigrant is $63. The full particulars con cerning immigration, together with the claims of the several States to the prefer ence of the coming immigrant, are to be embodied in a special Report on Immigration, soon to be issued from the

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has prescribed rules for the direction of all revenue officers in regard to such compounds. He says that as the preparation in question contains distilled spirits, there seems to be no question that the manufacturer is liable to some one of the internal revenue taxes, but the difficulty is ternal revenue taxes, but the difficulty is to determine which. If the preparation when completed may be properly classified as distilled spirits, then it should be taxed under section 50, and put up and stamped under section 25 of the act of July 20, 1868. If not classified as distilled spirits, but produced by being rectified or alread with distilled spirits, but produced by being rectified or mixed with distilled spirits or by infusion of any matter in spirits, it should be taxed under section 48, unless found to be a medicinal preparation, such as is described in schedule C. When other materials are compounded with distilled spirits to such a strict of the preparation of the production an extent as that the predominance of other materials reduces the proof of the spirits as shown by the United States standard Hydrometer to 50 degrees proof spirits or less, it is held not to be distilled spirits within the meaning of that term as used in section 59.
